

O'Neill's Folly

So the kids hit high school or university and you've got time for yourself again? Some people buy sports cars, some renovate houses, some have affairs, and some.... re-discover their love of music and the fun and folly of folk music and form a band!

O'Neill's Folly are late bloomers, who journeyed back to music by various paths, but at one stage all were adults having lessons with Australian folk legend and multi-instrumentalist maestro Dave O'Neill.

Influenced by a diverse range of musical styles, including trad Irish, country, bluegrass and gospel, as well as classic rock and pop, and given guidance and musical and technical advice from maestro O'Neill, the band are firm friends all having immense fun becoming the musicians they were always destined to be, albeit a little bit later than usual. With textured and nuanced arrangements they bring a folkie twist to songs old and new. From Celtic love songs, to country gems, from Australian classics to some belting Irish tunes. Weaving rich harmonies around fiddle, guitar, banjo, mandolin and zouk, come be surprised, entertained and even inspired by their infectious enthusiasm and shared joy. Frolick with the Follies!
